SHERIFF KNEW HIS DEPUTIES SLEW HELPER

Says Aide Refused To Shoot Up Home of Organizer

Washington, April 30—(AP)—Sheriff Theodore Middleton of Harlan county, Ky., testified today he knew two of his deputies had shot and left for dead another deputy, Hugh Taylor.

The chief law enforcement officer of the Kentucky coal county testified before the LaFollette civil liberties committee that deputies Wash Irvin and Frank White "gave me the guns" with which they shot Taylor on the night of February 28.

Neither White, nor Irvin, was dismissed from the sheriff's force or placed under arrest, Middleton added, although a warrant was sworn out later charging them with the offense.

Taylor had told the committee previously that Irvin and White shot him five times on a lonely mountain road and left him, apparently dead, in a ditch.

His reason, he charged, was that he had refused to help them "shoot up" the home of Marshall A. Musick, United Mine Workers' organizer. Musick's son, Bennett, 19, was killed when the cabin was peppered with bullets February 9.

Admits Violence

The sheriff acknowledged to the Senate committee that "quite a lot of violence has been committed by my deputies."

Chairman LaFollette (Pro-Wis.) of the Senate civil liberties committee charged that "scores of shootings and dynamitings" of United Mine Workers members had been committed by the sheriff's deputies, and that:

"Most of the crime and violence in Harlan county has been caused by your deputies and your alliance with the local coal operators."

"Well, there's been quite a lot of violence committed by my deputies," Middleton answered.

Careful Not to Know

George Ward, secretary of the Harlan county, Ky., Coal Operators' Association, told Senate investigators today he was "very careful to be in a position not to know" whether sub-machine guns and other weapons had been purchased with association money.

The bespectacled, neatly-clad secretary told the committee that Ben Unthank, chief deputy for the association who has been sought for several weeks by the committee, would receive about six weeks' back pay "if he ever shows up."

He had no way of knowing how much money Unthank spent for arms, he explained, because the deputy was never required to account for any funds he received from the association.

"I just didn't want to know what he did with the money," he added.

BEATEN TO DEATH

Granite City, Ill., April 30—(AP)—His skull crushed, English Moosesian, 52, was found beaten to death in his tavern today. His pockets were turned inside out and the cash register in the tavern had been looted.

Heart Missed Beat

Nordham, Tex., April 30—(AP)—Perhaps Miguel Hernandez' heart missed a beat when that rattlesnake slid out of his automobile right on his heels as he reached town. It had crawled into the seat cushion and he had been sitting on it during a drive of ten miles.

Yep, he killed it, and its mate at home in the garage, too.

Death May Make Reality of Mock Funeral of 88-Year-Old Farmer

Danville, Ind., April 30—(AP)—Death may make a reality of Wade Millman's "mock" funeral.

A week ago the 88-year-old farmer announced he would conduct his own funeral services and "burial" on May 15. He's sent formal invitations to his friends to attend, he said, and then, instead of having a funeral oration, would just sit around and talk to persons who came.

Today he lay in a serious condition at his farm home near here, stricken by a heart attack in the midst of preparations for his "funeral." Physicians said he would not live long.

The illness prevented him from attending funeral services for his wife, who insistently refused to let her husband keep an oak coffin.

SEEK CHANGE OF VENUE FOR DENHARDT NOW

Defense Says Juror Signs Affidavit, Trial Unfair

New Castle, Ky., April 30—(AP)—Commonwealth's Attorney H. B. Kinsolving, Jr., and Defense Attorney John Marshall Berry said today one of the jurors in the Denhardt murder trial had signed an affidavit stating Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt could not get a fair trial in Henry county.

The defense, in its efforts to force a change of venue, had gathered a number of affidavits. Berry said he had an affidavit to this effect from Joe Henderson, chosen on the jury after Circuit Judge Charles C. Marshall had gone on with the trial here.

The statement was made during the luncheon recess after the defense had launched its scientific testimony designed to offset the commonwealth's evidence.

The defense produced a witness who declared experiments indicated Denhardt's fiancée, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, committed suicide, and another who testified paraffin tests did not always prove effective.

The defense experts took the stand in the Denhardt murder trial today following yesterday's long recital by Denhardt in which he denied killing his comely fiancée and said she had spoken to him of a suicide pact. Denhardt declared the blue grass widow was agitated over jealousy of Chester Woolfook, 26, laundry driver. Commonwealth's Attorney H. B. Kinsolving indicated he would call Woolfook to deny this.

Pistol Close to Body

Major Selig Ward of Washington, former FBI expert, told the jury today his experiments showed Denhardt's arms pistol was close to the woman's body when the fatal shot was fired. This testimony was brought to bolster a suicide theory.

R. C. Sherberg of Chicago, Cook county chemist, followed Ward and declared paraffin tests of a person's hands some times were negative even if that person recently had fired a weapon. The commonwealth experts had testified Paraffin tests proved Mrs. Taylor had not fired a weapon shortly before her body was found the night of last November 6 and that similar tests showed Denhardt had.

Yesterday, enunciating his testimony in the packed stuffy court room, the general pictured Mrs. Taylor as nervous and worried and said she had proposed "we both die together" the night of last Nov. 6 when she was found shot to death on a country roadside about 600 yards from his car, in which they had been out riding.

His sweetheart told him, the general said, that her truck driver had "misconstrued her kindness to him" and upon hearing she was wearing a diamond ring given her by the general had confessed his love for her. Denhardt testified that Woolfook told Mrs. Taylor he was not going to permit her to marry the general.

The owner of the bus line testified that he estimated his damage at about $890 counting the loss of time and damage to the truck and trailer. Mayor Max Bradshaw of Compton was a witness in Farley's defense and character witnesses were presented from Leland and Paw Paw.

Defendant on Stand

Farley took the witness stand just before noon and testified that he had taken but one drink on the date of the accident. He consumed one drink of whiskey about 5 o'clock in the evening at a Compton tavern, he testified. His condition, he attributed to shock when his head was thrown against the windshield, breaking a hole in the glass when the machines crashed. In telephoning for a wrecker, witnesses testified that Farley gave the location of his wrecked car as being on route 23 north of Ottawa. On the witness stand the defendant testified that he was dazed, dumb-founded, or suffering from shock, which he said he said his head ached and his ears rang.

At the noon hour the taking of testimony had concluded and the attorneys proceeded with their closing arguments to the jury.

DEPUTY SHERIFF ON TRIAL TODAY IN COUNTY COURT

LaSalle Co. Official Denies Charges of Drunken Driving

Herbis L. Farley, LaSalle county deputy sheriff for the past 12 years, farmer and stock buyer of Leland, is on trial before a jury in the county court today on an information charging him with the operation of an automobile while in an intoxicated condition on the night of Jan. 23. Robert W. Taylor of Chicago, driver of a truck for the Safeway Trucking Co., is the complainant and charges that Farley, while in an intoxicated condition on the above date, caused a collision on U. S. route 51, 13 miles south of Rochelle in Lee county.

Attorney H. C. Warner appeared for Farley with State's Attorney Edward Jones prosecuting. State Highway Police Officer Leonard of Rochelle, who was summoned to the scene of the wreck, testified on the witness stand this morning that Farley was intoxicated and that he was removed to Rochelle where he was placed in jail. The following day he was brought to the Lee county jail, the officer testified, and on the way to Dixon threatened the state officer.

The owner of the bus line testified that he estimated his damage at about $890 counting the loss of time and damage to the truck and trailer. Mayor Max Bradshaw of Compton was a witness in Farley's defense and character witnesses were presented from Leland and Paw Paw.

Commission Okay of Transaction is Requested

The bid of Frank M. Hughes & Son of this city for the construction of a cement bridge on the Steward spur, was the lowest when the road and bridge committee of the board of supervisors met this morning. A total of eight bids were submitted, the Dixon contractor being low with a figure of $9,497.43.

The contractor will begin work tomorrow, County Superintendent of Highways Fred W. Leake stated today after the awarding of the contract. The former bridge collapsed during high water in February necessitating the detouring of traffic from Steward to U. S. route 51, which has been the source of no small amount of complaint. The superintendent added that work was to be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

The new bridge will be a 71 foot span, 22 feet in width with reinforced concrete floor and hand rail. The concrete floor structure will rest on eye beams which will be supported on creosoted piling. The bid also provides for the widening of the present paved highway on both sides of the new bridge structure.

Beier's Retail Store is Moved

The retail department of the Beier bakery will be moved to a new location in the fine modern building on Hennepin avenue Saturday. The room on the south, formerly occupied as a cobbler's shop, has been renovated, redecorated and modernized to provide an ideal location for the retail store. A neon decorative lighting system has also been installed in the interior of the new department, which will be opened to the public tomorrow morning.

The store room which has accommodated the retail department is to undergo immediate changes and become a part of the production department of the bakery. Considerable new baking machinery is to be installed as soon as the changes can be made, which will include a huge mixing machine of the latest type.

622 Lee Countyites Receive Assistance

The Lee county offices of the Public Welfare department in charge of old age pensions, had not been informed of any change in the method of payments up until now today. This information was gained when inquiry was made concerning the reported discontinuance of payments to clients whose applications have been approved. In Lee county a total of 622 applicants receive about $9,500 monthly, it was announced.

The county office forwarded applications from 15 additional clients to the state department at Springfield during the present month, and according to the announcement today, none of these had been approved.

Dispatch Reports Faster For 52 Days Can Resume Eating

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 30—(AP)—A special dispatch to the Chattanooga News today from Stopping Oak said "The Lord spoke to Jackson Whitlow this morning, saying 'take a little wine for your stomach's sake.'"

"He preferred elderberry," the dispatch added.

The brief report did not say whether the 45-year-old mountaineer had taken any food. He began the religious fast 52 days ago after "a call from the Lord."

FIFTY-SECOND DAY

Stopping Oak, Tenn., April 30.—(AP)—So weak that he gasped for breath after the slightest movement, 45-year-old Jackson Whitlow faced what he said was his fifty-second foodless day today, still staunch in his determination "not to eat until the Lord calls."

Whitlow said he started his fast March 10, when he was "instructed by the Lord" to fast.

Led Campaign

REV. HOWARD P. BUXTON

Rev. Howard P. Buxton was transferred to the Dixon Methodist church from Oak Park in the autumn of 1935 succeeding the Rev. Gilbert Stansell. Previous to the Oak Park pastorate Rev. Buxton had served two churches in Chicago, the Riverside Methodist church, having been in the latter church five years.

He is a graduate of the high school of Joplin, Mo., Northwestern University and Garrett Biblical Institute, and is serving his fifth year as a trustee of the latter institution. He has since done post-graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Buxton has led the church in a campaign for $12,000 for rehabilitating the church, the exterior as well as the interior. The work is moving rapidly to a close and will be completed during the summer.

The minister is the proud possessor of the bronze Carnegie hero medal, which was presented to him, together with an award of $1,000, two years after he had saved a 9-year-old boy from drowning in the DesPlaines river December 28, 1930.

Wedding Party in Wreck Near Walnut

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trotter, who were married Saturday at Peoria, and members of the wedding party, Miss Marjorie Trotter and Harvey Hinkle, all of this city, narrowly escaped being either killed or drowned in an automobile accident five miles south of Walnut on state route 88 Sunday evening, about 9 o'clock, when their car was struck by a southbound machine and turned over three times, finally coming to a stop in a deep ditch filled with water.

The occupants were either thrown clear of the wrecked car or scrambled to safety but Miss Trotter sustained painful body injuries which necessitated her removal to the office of a physician at Walnut, where her injuries were dressed. The others escaped with less serious injuries and all were brought to their homes in Dixon. Miss Trotter will be confined to her home for several days. The car which they were driving was badly damaged and was hauled to a local garage.

Hasten Evacuation

Along the beleaguered, fort-encircled Basque front ashore, the men of Bilbao pushed their efforts to evacuate their women and children and to spare them from such insurgent air raids as they blame for the devastation of Guernica, their "sacred city," where 800 died Monday.

In France, Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos told senators that Britain and France would try to find out if German planes bombed Guernica, now the roadway of marching insurgent armies. He also said Britain and France had agreed that measures must be taken to aid the Bilbao evacuation.

The bombing and machine gunning planes jashed at Galdacano, a strategic point on the last line of entrenchments encircling the Basque capital where 30,000 troops were in readiness to meet Gen. Emilio Mola's army.

The air raiders swooped down on Galdacano and Bilbao itself late yesterday, spreading destruction in the suburban town and menacing four British foodcarriers in Bilbao harbor.

The freighters, which reached the jammed capital yesterday, and other ships at anchor escaped damage, although bombs splashed the decks with spray.

Music Club Meeting Adjourned Friday

Hundreds of music-lovers from all parts of the United States packed up their instruments and music to return home today after the week-long twentieth biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Only the board of directors of the federation remained for an extra day of business sessions, but in their footsteps the delegates left concrete forms of their musical aims in the form of resolutions adopted at the closing meetings yesterday.

One resolution urged that a department of fine arts, with a secretary in the president's cabinet, be established and that the department include a bureau of music.

Another requested Congress to make provisions for federal music scholarships to be distributed among universities, colleges and music schools. A third urged promotion of the cause of peace through music.

The convention voted reindorsement of the federal music project.

Pinchot Opposes Brownlow Report

Chicago, April 30—(AP)—Former Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania called on the Iowa Walton League of America today to oppose the Brownlow report on government executive branch reorganization.

Pinchot, speaking at the league's 15th annual convention, termed the Brownlow plan "the most dangerous attack that has been made upon the national conservation policy since it was first laid before the people of the United States by Theodore Roosevelt in 1908."

The former governor referred to the Brownlow plan as "the proposed maladministration of the natural resources of the nation and wrecking of the conservation policy" by recommending transfer of the national forests back to the interior department.

"In addition," he said, "it recommends that the conservation work shall be disbanded and scattered between two departments"—the interior and agriculture departments.

Flora Furniture Plant Equipment Moved To Mattoon

Flora, Ill., April 30—(AP)—Fred Kuehne, Jr., head of the Kuehne Furniture Company here, said today he was transferring to Mattoon, Ill., all the equipment of the Flora plant, which he closed recently after a strike of employees.

The approximately 300 workers of the factory struck March 22.

Kuehne said the Mattoon plant had employed 300 men but now was working double shift.

Eight former factory workers convicted of contempt of court for alleged violation of an injunction to prevent picketing, faced Circuit Judge W. B. Wright of Louisville, Ill., today for sentence.

BEARDS MAY BRING NEW ERA OF STRUTTING MALE

Just as if the future wasn't uncertain and perplexing enough already, Fortune Magazine now comes out with an article predicting the return of the male beard. A barbers' journal, says Fortune, not only foresees such a return but advocates it. More significantly, Columbia University's eminent forecaster, Paul Nystrom, is quoted as follows:

"American men will blossom out in clouds of beards in a decade or two. Men's mass tastes change more slowly than women's, but they change, nevertheless. A new bearded age is on the way. Your sons will be wearing heavy beards."

In the face of such expert advice, the average male can do nothing but stroke his chin reflectively, gaze on the downy cheeks of his small son, and reflect that eventually those blooming cheeks will be hidden behind a glossy tangle of shrubbery in the style of a Civil War general.

But when you stop and consider the matter prayerfully, there seems to be no good reason why a renaissance of beards should not take place. And if that, in turn, leads men to regain a little of their old pride in personal adornment, we are going to have a more colorful and exciting world.

There was a time when men were every bit as persnickety about their looks as women, if not more so. An Englishman of Elizabeth's day, for instance, was as vain about having his beard frizzed and perfumed, and as careful about his great starched ruff and the lace fringes to his sleeves, as his great-great-granddaughter is about her new-born permanent. With it all, he was nobody's pansy, either; the men who followed Drake around the world, sought the northwest passage with Frobenius, and won the empire of India may have been peacocks, but they had hair on their chests.

But somehow, in this modern world, all this has gone by the boards. For several generations now it has been man's lot to look as drab and as uninspiring as the tailor can make him. His daily garb is dull and somber; his evening attire is positively funereal; and if he had a brief rebellion on the golf links, and went in for gaudy hose and baggy knickers, even those have given way to plain gray flannel slacks.

This isn't good for him. The strutting instinct lies deep, and it can't be choked off without setting up unwholesome pressures. It is more than a desire to get a night out occasionally that leads the modern man to join lodges and dress up in gold and purple. The ancient urge to look dazzling, to make a vain and gaudy show of himself, is still working.

Beards are surely a modest beginning. By themselves, they won't do the trick. But they are a step in the right direction. That step once taken, men may at last assert themselves and regain the old right to look as colorful (if not, perhaps, so attractive) as their womenfolk.

SHARP REMINDER

The recurrence of flood conditions in Pennsylvania is a timely little reminder that the administration had better not be too hasty in its sudden desire to lop expenditures off the federal budget.

When the winter's floods struck, it was generally agreed that the government must prepare to lay out vast sums on a comprehensive program for flood control. As the waters receded, agitation for such a program died down a bit. Then, when the President called for economy, it began to be more or less taken for granted that this flood control program might be one of the things that would have to wait.

But the need is as pressing as ever. A few days of heavy rain gave dwellers in the Ohio valley a sharp reminder that the conditions which make disastrous floods possible are still present. It would be poor economy to let them go unremedied much longer.

BAR ETIQUET

One of the weirdest court decisions we can recall offhand was recorded in New York the other day, when a magistrate held that a man who failed to remove his hat in a bar in the presence of ladies was guilty of disorderly conduct.

The culprit in question, it seems, was taking his ease in a second avenue bar, his hat tilted comfortably back off his brow, when a feminine customer came in. The man failed to uncover, and, when the proprietor requested him to do so, he got a bit tough about it. The police finally drew cards in the affair, the man was lugged off to court—and the pearl of judicial wisdom mentioned above was the result.

Now we may be old-fashioned and woefully back-numberish, but we can't help feeling that a woman who insists that men uncover in her presence has one excellent recourse in such a situation. She can stay out of bars.

M. BLUM'S MISTAKE

Luckily, American politicians seldom make excursions into literature. Therefore they escape the danger of getting themselves into the sort of jam which Premier Leon Blum, of France, is in right now.

Away back in 1912, when he did not dream that he would one day govern the republic, Premier Blum wrote a "Treatise on Marriage." It was a frank, unorthodox, and frolicsome work, and the French people—who, with all their faults, do not go to books for their sex life—ignored it. But now that M. Blum is prime minister, the book has been re-discovered and is going like hot cakes. It is in its 20th edition, and the premier wishes most ardently that he had never set pen to paper.

That sort of thing should be a warning to all politicians. Never, never write a book—on marriage or anything else—if you plan to seek elective office. It will be dug up, some day, and come back to haunt you like a ghost from your unregenerate past. What you put down on paper can be immortal—at a time when you most earnestly wish that it would die.

FACING TWO WAYS

A small scale sample of the conflicting attitude which America has toward the matter of war is pointed up by the recent "peace strike" in New York City.

Thousands of students recited an oath by which they bound themselves not to support the United States in any war it might conduct. In the demonstrations that followed, the students revealed their overwhelming sympathy for the Loyalist side in Spain, many even going without their lunches and contributing their lunch money to a fund for the Loyalists.

Here the youngsters, at one and the same time, are turning thumbs down on war, and yet letting themselves be swayed by the plight of one faction overseas. And it probably would be hard to convince them that the two sentiments don't jibe; that sympathy for one or another warring side is always a distinct menace to neutrality.

Associated Press Reveals Where Big News of Day Breaks

(Editor's note: This is the fourth of a series of Associated Press stories describing press conferences of leading Washington figures.)

Washington, April 30—(AP)—The daily press conferences of Secretary of State Cordell Hull pack enough unwritten dogmas to trip a super-diplomat.

They are held over a table surrounded by chairs—yet no one sits. What the secretary says is what makes the news—yet you can't quote him unless a special exception is made.

His answers are vitally important to foreign correspondents present from the corners of the world—but few ever ask him questions.

The secretary stands at one end of the table, his hands folded over the back of a chair. The reporters line up behind the other chairs and fire their inquiries.

If the secretary should say: "I feel fine this spring day"—custom commands that the remark be recorded, to the world as—Secretary Hull said he felt fine this spring day. Direct quotation is forbidden.

There are good reasons. When you're speaking for the state department, you're dealing on diplomatic dynamite. A misplaced comma can start an international incident.

The secretary—tall and the model of dignity—is the personification of the department. He has a rare gift of answering questions without saying "yes" or "no."

Capital story tellers illustrate this quality with an old cracker-box favorite. They apply the tale to Mr. Hull traveling by train across his native Tennessee and what is more, contend it's true.

"That's a fine flock of sheep, isn't it?" said a stranger pointing out of the window and trying to strike up a conversation.

"That's true," Mr. Hull is reported to have replied, "if they are not goats."

"They've just been sheared, haven't they?" persisted the man. Rumor has it the cautious official replied:

"They have been—on this side."

BY EDDY GILMORE

Washington, April 30—(AP)—Vice-President John N. Garner doesn't hold press conferences. N women who want to ask him something just drop by and try to coax an answer.

Informality rules the office of the colorful Texan.

Ushered into his quarters with no more ceremony than a polite good morning from a secretary, you might find the Vice-President reared back in his chair, his feet against the desk, poring over the Congressional Record.

Garner has a rare faculty of putting people at ease. If he knows the reporter, the greeting could be something like this:

"Hello, bella"—a favorite expression—"how'd you get up this early?"

If he doesn't know the caller, he may look up pleasantly from beneath his shaggy eyebrows and ask:

"You want to see me?"

Reporters have decided the best way to ask Garner a question is to fire it at him point blank. Sometimes it works, and he'll fire back the answer.

Garner has many friends among newsmen. He calls scores of them by their first names, and a few who have known him for years call him by his.

His lack of press conferences doesn't mean he knows no news. If John H. Garner would spill all the politics he knew every day he'd come close to filling a whole newspaper.

Some of the smallest comets known to mankind are much larger than the earth.

Someone drove into F. R. Roe's orchard at night and stole 100 young trees from his nursery.

In the future nurserymen may resort to branding their trees, like stockmen brand cattle.

PEACE POLL

Vote Taken at Illinois University Shows Sentiment

Champaign, Ill., April 30—(AP)—A University of Illinois peace poll disclosed today that 197 of 1,650 voting students would "fight under no circumstances" if the United States entered another war, while 968 were willing to bear arms only in the event of invasion.

An arms embargo against warring nations was favored by 1,333 students and 621 would make training under R. O. T. C. commanders compulsory in universities and colleges. Eight hundred and ten said participation in the R. O. T. C. should be optional.

The ballots were cast in connection with student observance of Peace Week throughout the nation.

Only 144 sanctioned sale of munitions to all nations while 139 would permit the sale of arms only to those countries under attack. More than 300 expressed willingness to fight in a war under any circumstances; 422 would defend the United States against a dictatorship and 189 favored more even distribution of materials.

Forty-one students welcomed war, and 409 voted against reduction in the American military budget while 954 favored reduction if similar actions were taken by other nations.

Answer to Question No. 2

But if he fails to do this he is falling in that larger-heartedness that takes into consideration the fellow-workers that the incompetent one is injuring by his poor work and the fact that practically always there is a competent worker needing the job. Answer to Question No. 3

3. I dislike to answer a question more than once in this column but this one comes in nearly every mail from some individual or group. The height of your forehead has no more to do with the height of your intelligence than has the height of your knee cap from the ground, or the distance from your elbow to the end of your little finger. As I pointed out last year, one psychologist measured the heads of 1,500 criminals and a large group of non-criminal adults and found the criminals had slightly higher foreheads than did the lawyers and judges who tried them. This was merely by chance but it happened to turn out that way.

David Burns has recovered from his recent illness and returned to duty on the night shift.

We have been asked to note the fact that Richard "Cardinal" Hoban prefers to be addressed in conversation by his latest title. For the benefit of those interested we give it viz: His Most Serene Beatitude Richard Hoban, Grand Protector and Exalted Patriarch of the Ancient and Accepted Order of Pleonasts.

Eugene "Bing" Miller is on the sick list.

Walter Sharkey, day policeman, is ill at his home in Dixon.

"The Girl From Paris," was the title of the feature picture presented at the weekly movie show for patients presented at the amusement hall last evening under the sponsorship of the recreation department. The patients attending particularly enjoyed the flute like soprano voice of Lilly Pons, the opera star.

Our attention has been called to a story we printed some time ago about some investigations our good friend Gerald "Judge" Waite proposed carrying on. We thought we had prepared the story in a manner so that anyone reading would realize it was not to be taken too seriously. We are informed however, that such is not the case and that the story has been regarded by some people in a light entirely different than that which we intended. The responsibility for the story is ours entirely and we gladly tender Mr. Waite a sincere apology for having printed it.

John Bracewell, a new employee from Danville, has reported for duty and has been assigned to late duty on cottage A-7.

Kenneth Dudman the terror of the night watches who fail to register promptly is nursing a pair of very sore arms received while helping Mrs. Dudman with the spring house cleaning.

The employees assigned to Farm I began the work preliminary to planting the year's crop of oats in the fields yesterday afternoon. This work has been delayed by the bad weather of the past few weeks.

We are pleased to learn from Mrs. Glatter that Dr. Z. T. Glatter of the staff now on leave of absence has located in Indiana Harbor, Ind. This town is in the heart of the industrial region, the center of which is Gary and should be an excellent spot for the exercise of Dr. Glatter's professional attainments. This column believes it is voicing the unanimous sentiment of the hospital in wishing him the success that is rightfully his.

Helen Matvosian has returned to duty. Mrs. Matvosian was injured in a recent altercation on B-1.

Howard Woodyatt has returned to duty from his vacation.

W. and M. Henshaw have returned to duty after their recent visit to their home.

CONFERENCE ON WAGNER ACT IS CALLED MAY 4

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins has invited 26 labor and industrial leaders to attend a second conference on May 4 on collective bargaining problems under the Wagner act.

Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler corporation, headed the list of industrialists. He was the first auto manufacturer asked to help lay the foundation for stabilized employer-employee relations.

Simultaneously the labor department's federal employment service announced an increase in employment and predicted its next report may show a record low of applications.

First figures for March were so far below February, when the active file contained 6,155,990 names, that a check has been started. The February total was the lowest since May, 1932. The peak, just a year ago, was 9,312,900.

New applications in March totaled 262,306 and placements 250,249. The service explained, however, that other factors such as cancellations would have an important bearing on the final figure, which it said might run as much as 500,000 below February.

PRESBYTERIANS OF DIXON WERE GUESTS MONDAY

Enjoyable Supper and Program in Sterling are Reported

Sterling Gazette—The Presbyterian Men's club was host to the men of the Dixon Presbyterian church for a supper meeting in the local church Monday evening. Over 80 were present to enjoy the delicious 6.30 picnic supper served by a committee of the church women. Following the supper, Will Reese acted as master of ceremonies and Robert Honens led the community singing. Mr. Bryant of Dixon presided at the piano. Loy Knox extended greetings to the visiting brotherhood.

The splendid program, which was in charge of the Dixon group, opened with two fine violin solos, played by Earl Forsberg, with piano accompaniment by Lester Kieffer. The selections were "Romance," by Beethoven, and "Valse," by Berger. The boys are sophomores in Dixon high, and in the music contest for northern Illinois district held April 17 in DeKalb the former won first place in violin and the latter was awarded first in piano.

Clever Sketch Given

A humorous sketch, entitled "Two Bad Boys of Europe" was presented by Clark Knox and Willard Moore. It was an original satirical farce, the words written by Leo Ribky and the music by Edwin Eichler. The characters of Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler were cleverly played by Knox and Moore, respectively. They were also costumed for the parts. Especially enjoyed were the two vocal selections sung by Rev. Herbert J. Doran, pastor of the Dixon church. The numbers were "The Open Road," Pickles, and "Rolling Down to Rio," German.

The speaker for the evening was James Palmer, district highway safety engineer, who gave a very constructive talk on motor safety and a statistical report of his office. After the program the meeting was concluded with a social and get-acquainted hour.

Press Clippings Outgrow Feller's Manila Envelope

Chicago, April 30—(AP)—Cleveland's Bob Feller, in the American league less than a season, already has Henry P. Edwards, manager of the junior circuit's service bureau, hustling to keep up with his work.

Heretofore a manila envelope has been big enough to handle all the clippings collected by Edwards on one player during a season. So much has been written about the sensational Indian hurler, however, that a bellows-style filing envelope, three inches thick, has replaced the manila affair.

"I don't remember when so much has been written about a player in such a short time," Edwards said, "and the season is hardly underway."

STORIES IN STAMPS BY I. S. KLEIN WHERE ARMY OFFICERS ARE TRAINED

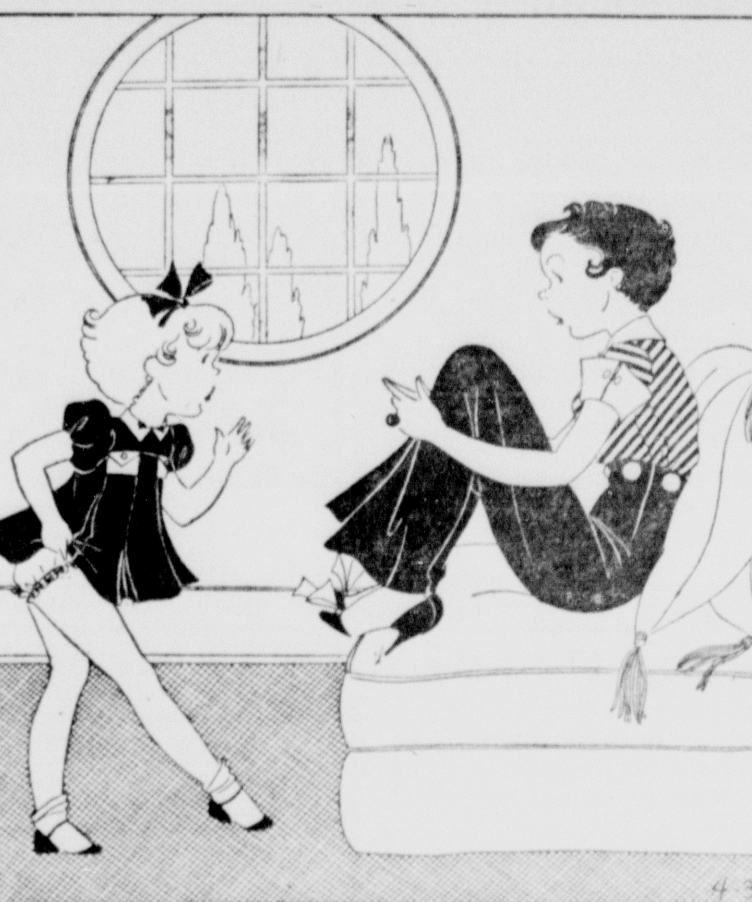

THE British might have quelled the American Revolution at an early stage, had it not been for the strong defenses set up at West Point, 50 miles up the Hudson from New York, under the direction of the great Polish general, Tadeusz Kosciuszko. Set off on a height, at a bend in the river, this was a natural strategic point for defenses that cost $3,000,000.

Once the headquarters of General Washington, West Point later became a depot for storage of military property, and then was garrisoned by the new corps of artillery and engineers. In 1802, however, the Corps of Engineers organized it as a military academy, retaining such control until 1866. Since then, the academy has been a part of the army at large.

Here, by presidential and congressional appointment, or by other methods of selection, come youngsters from all parts of the United States, for four years of intensive training to become officers in the army. The academy is pictured on the new 5-cent army stamp.

THE CROW RIFLE By Monroe H. Goode

Crows are the natural enemy of upland game, song birds, and waterfowl. The black marauders are even more destructive than hawks because they are so much more numerous. Crows are an arch enemy of the farmer. They rob the nests of his chickens, turkeys, and ducks and kill the young of these barnyard fowls; pick out the eyes of his young pigs and calves; and eat his crops, fruit and watermelons. In the spring and summer, the crow's diet consists mainly of eggs, young birds, and tender sprouted crops. He does not discriminate between the various kinds of eggs that make up this diet—duck, grouse, pheasant, dove, quail, turkey, or song bird eggs are all equally relished by the glutton. Old crows spend their time searching out the nesting places of birds of every variety, from turkeys to humming birds, and wherever game birds and waterfowl nest, there will be found myriads of the black scoundrels. When young song or game birds are hatched, crows take their daily toll, with fear or favor, and continue their depredations as long as possible.

Crows are, first and last, gangsters. They are thieves, cowards, and despicable villains, always carrying on mass warfare against peaceful and worthy neighbors and having not one friend among the bird family. They scout their territory in flocks, sounding their rancorous challenge to the weak and defenseless. Crows will not break their vengeance single-handed, but "gang-up" on their lone adversary. In the realm of destructive vermin, crows are public enemy No. 1, and they must be kept under strict control.

When you join the "shoot the crow" movement, you achieve three objectives: indirectly increase wild birds and game, destroy an enemy of the farmer, and afford yourself year-around recreation in the fresh air and sunshine.

The "shoot the crow" movement has been successfully launched and thousands of persons are now combining rifle shooting with game conservation. Crow shooting has a special appeal for the rifleman as the birds are exceedingly wary and are of small size, which calls for accurate shooting as the range is usually from 75 to 200 yards, depending upon the methods of hunting employed.

In heavily wooded areas the rifleman can spot the black robbers in trees and sneak up close enough under cover of foliage to make a killing shot but the expert crow hunter demands a suitable blind located in or near a woodland, a stuffed horned owl or crow or a live crow decoy, and an effective crow call. Once inside the blind, the rifleman should never expose himself, particularly his eyes, as crows are extremely cautious and if they catch a glimpse of his eyes or face, they will instantly leave the area. If the shooter remains concealed, good shooting can be had for hours.

The regular 22 long rifle fire cartridge is, by all odds, the best caliber to use when shooting from a blind as it has little muzzle report and the bullet does not have a bad overhead crack as do high velocity bullets. The louder report of even a 22 Hornet cartridge will so frighten crows that they will leave the area for good, while they appear to have little fear of the 22 long rifle cartridge, which, in addition to its other good qualities, offers superb accuracy, and the hollow point bullets are quite destructive. If you want to be successful with the crows, choose the 22 long rifle cartridge in preference to all others.

Crow shooting calls for a super-accurate, heavy-barrel rifle with sling and special match ammunition, and for best results telescope sights are advisable. In the ab-

SHOWDOWN ON INSURANCE IN ASSEMBLY NOW

Leaders Frustrated Attempting To Put It In House

Springfield, Ill., April 30—(AP)—Frustrated in their initial attempt to send the insurance code to the house floor, administration leaders planned to have a showdown on the measure Tuesday.

The otherwise peaceful journey of the bill through the legislature was interrupted yesterday as dissension broke out in the house insurance committee over an amendment which would have reduced interest rates on loans on insurance policies from six to four and one-half per cent.

A roll call on the motion of Nicholas Hubbard, Mt. Pulaski Democrat, to send the bill out with a recommendation for passage was all but drowned out in shouts for adjournment, threats to kill the measure on the house floor and general disorder. Hubbard withdrew his motion and further consideration was postponed until Tuesday.

Led by Rep. Lyons, Libertyville Republican, and Pierce L. Shannon, Chicago Democrat, opposition suddenly organized against committee action on the ground that Chairman George A. Fitzgerald, Chicago, was not following house rules of procedure.

They contended that while they were for the code, a "mental attitude" was being created in the committee which might produce antagonism to the measure and result in its failure to pass the lower house. The senate already has approved the bill.

The disturbance apparently grew out of a dispute over the vote to table the policy loan interest rate reduction amendment offered by Stanley A. Halick, Chicago Democrat. Lyons and others claimed that after Fitzgerald announced the vote as deadlocked at 14-14, another member voted to table the amendment. As the hearing broke up, Halick insisted that the amendment be reconsidered.

ROCHELLE NEWS

By Arthur T. Guest

Rochelle—Mr. and Mrs. O. J.
Caron of 3500 Lake Shore drive,
Chicago, celebrated their silver
wedding anniversary Saturday night with a dinner party at their home, at which they announced
the engagement of their daughter, Patricia, to Patrick F. Crowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Crowley of 742 Junior terrace, Chicago.
Miss Caron attended the convent
of the Sacred Heart and was graduated from Trinity college in Washington, D. C. Mr. Crowley is a graduate of Notre Dame. The wedding will take place in the fall.

Mr. Caron is president of the Caron Spinning Co. of Rochelle and the family have a home in Rochelle
which they open for the summer.
Impressive dedication ceremonies
in the new Minnie Luxton memorial chapel building at Lawnridge
cemetery will be held Sunday, May 2, at 2:30 p. m.

The presentation of the chapel
building to the city will be made
by J. E. Barber, while Mayor P.
R. Diederich will give the acceptance speech. Following will be addresses by the Rev. Paul Dibble,
pastor of the Methodist church,
and the Rev. P. A. Campbell, pastor of the Presbyterian church.
The beautiful building was planned by the late Minnie Luxton and was erected with $5,000 from the

HOUSING

Other Cities Also Face
Situations Like
Dixon's

Additional evidence that the lack of housing is not a problem
peculiar to Dixon alone and that the demand for homes is due to increased industrial activity in northern Illinois is shown by the situation at DeKalb, where the housing shortage has forced some DeKalb workmen to rent houses
in Rochelle and create a shortage
of homes in that village.

DeKalb experienced a building
boom last summer, but it apparently fell far short of meeting the present demand. The situation is summed up in an editorial appearing in the DeKalb Daily Chronicle. The editor has this to say:

"During the past summer DeKalb
experienced one of the outstanding building booms it has had in years. Indications for the present
summer show that even the mark
of last year is apt to be passed.
One contractor reports that he has four houses ordered for the coming months; others indicate a satisfactory volume of work signed,
with more in prospect.

"And yet the housing situation
in this city is acute. A dealer in auto trailers states that his most interesting prospects are DeKalb
residents who are not contemplating
a trip, but investigating the possibilities of a trailer home until they can find a more suitable

Luxton estate and $3,000 contributed by the city of Rochelle.

This week landscaping of the grounds with trees and shrubbery
under the direction of Commissioner Jay U. Lanning is to be completed.

The building has on the first floor rest rooms and a chapel with a seating capacity of 50. Crypts
will be installed downstairs.
D. O. C. Ault of Peabody and Vanderbilt universities of Nashville, Tenn., and author of many articles and books on economics,
including the new college text in economics, will address the Men's club in the Presbyterian church,
Thursday evening, May 6.

Reservations for the dinner are to be made through Floyd J. Bleifang.
Dr. Ault is at the present time
giving lectures at De Pau university on the economic aspects of labor conditions today. This will be the subject of his talk. He is the economic consultant for numerous institutions and corporations and
comes to Rochelle by special invitation of H. R. Lissack, superintendent of the graded public schools,
who met Dr. Ault while taking
work at Peabody.

The Service club enjoyed a luncheon at the home of Mrs. H. J.
Phelps Wednesday.
A group of 16 who are planning for the 25th anniversary of the ordination of Rev. Frank A. Campbell to the ministry met for dinner
in the church Tuesday evening to work out plans for the May event.

place to live. Rochelle claims a housing shortage due to the lack of homes and apartments in this city for workers employed here.

"The situation is not a new one in this city. Back about 1893 the files of The Chronicle will show
a similar situation existing at that time. The editor in a plea that appeared with every issue of the paper begged, cajoled, pleaded and argued for the erection of 40 to 50 homes in DeKalb to satisfy the need. The operation of the railroad from DeKalb to Sycamore was made profitable by the number
of people going back and forth,
working in DeKalb in the day
time, living in Sycamore because they could not find a home in this city.

"Some way the problem has to be solved. Perhaps the organization of a syndicate which would make possible the construction of an apartment; the opening of a building boom in which a group of DeKalb residents would erect a dozen homes; or any other idea
that might be a partial solution to the problem. But it must be admitted that living quarters in De-Kalb are at a premium and something has to be done.

"When an established professional man of this city has the home
he is renting sold, and then ex-
hausts the possibilities of renting
one in this city and in Malta, and then starts looking in Waterman
for a place to live, it is time that DeKalb's building program be shifted into high gear."

All that is said about the housing situation in DeKalb is applicable to Dixon, although the demand for housing appears to be somewhat stronger than in DeKalb.

BILL IMPOSING
TAX ON NATURAL GAS SUGGESTED

Springfield, Ill., April 30—(AP)—
A bill to impose a tax of five cents
for each thousand cubic feet of natural gas sold in Illinois had the recommendation for passage today of the senate revenue committee.

The bill, sponsored by James O.
Monroe, Collinsville Democrat, was reported yesterday at the conclusion of a hearing in which the tax was both lauded and condemned.

Proponents of the bill contended
that competition of the natural gas companies was "ruining the coal industry and taking the jobs of about 10,000 men."

Representatives of industrial
groups contended that such a tax
would be prohibitive and they

STARVATION IN
200 YEARS SAYS
GLOOMY EXPERTUnless Fertility of Nation's Soil Is Restored

Newark, N. J., April 30—(AP)— Scientists on a WPA soil inventory
project have concluded that agriculture in the United States must
"die of its own neglect" within 200
years and "the population follow
suit" unless soil fertility measures
are instituted.

The project, which state WPA Administrator William H. J. Ely
said he believed was the first of its kind in the world, was directed by Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, chief of the division of soils and crops at the New Jersey agricultural experiment station at New Brunswick.

Using soil samples from 48 states
to determine chemical resources,
the WPA workers calculated that nitrogen, vital to plant life, will be exhausted from the soil within 224 years, sulphur will have disappeared by 2062, and "the eventual result will be a China-like famine in the richest country in the world."

The soil nutrient losses were blamed on erosion, leaching (the action of water seeping through the earth); harvesting, livestock
burning and the rapid oxidation of organic matter in the soil.

"Cover crops, erosion control,
nitrogen fixation and proper fertilization are obvious conclusions,"
the report said. "If they are not instituted, agriculture in the United States must eventually die of its own neglect. And the population will follow suit."

The shortest distance across the United States lies between San Diego, Calif. and Charleston, S. C., a distance of 2152 miles.

would be forced to use fuel other
than both coal and gas.

With the proposed game management plan removed, the department of conservation's proposed
new fish and game code was recommended for passage yesterday by the house and fish and game committee.

The only other major change was
fixing of the period for training
dogs in the field at August 15 to April 1 instead of limiting it to 90
days in the fall as originally proposed.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM STARTS LONG QUEST

Eyes Centered On Don Budge For Japan Match

San Francisco, April 30.—(AP)—The United States racquet men began the 1937 journey today down the treacherous Davis Cup trail which long has beckoned them to the cup at its end—but in vain.

They began the quest as favorites over Japan in the initial zone tests.

Eyes were upon America's top ranking ace, Don Budge, who has been off form in practice but blamed it on lack of his specially made racquets. He had the ones he wanted ready for the opening singles battle against Japan's No. 2 man, Fumitero Nakano.

Jiro Yamagishi, champion of his country and captain of the team, drew Frankie Parker of Milwaukee for the second singles encounter, concluding the first of the three-day competition.

Uncle Sam Favored
The series opened with Uncle Sam's court aces favored to turn back the invading squad although a 1-1 tie loomed as possible for the end of the first day.

Budge, the "Babe Ruth" of the group, figured to dispose of Nakano while Yamagishi was a strong favorite to defeat Parker. Budge's physical condition gave non-playing Capt. Edward G. Chandler no concern.

The Japanese, in heavy training for three weeks, turned up in top shape for the international struggle which will send the winner into the second round to meet the victor of the Australia-Mexico matches, also starting today.

CHALLENGER, CHAMP READY FOR TRAINING

Braddock Plunges Into Roadwork Immediately

Chicago, April 30.—(AP)—Champion James J. Braddock and challenger Joe Louis were ready today for a long, strenuous training grind in preparation for their world's heavyweight title bout June 22 at Comiskey Park.

Braddock, after visiting war veterans at the Edward Hines Memorial hospital, headed for the Golfmore resort at Grand Beach, Mich., 65 miles southeast of Chicago, on the Lake Michigan shore.

The titleholder will plunge into a routine workout campaign immediately, alternating sparring sessions with road drills. However, it will be at least three weeks before he begins public boxing drills. Manager Gould will see him settled in camp and then return east to await a Federal court decision on Madison Square Garden's injunction suit brought in an attempt to force Braddock to fight Max Baer in New York June 3.

Louis will train at Lake Geneva, Wis., a resort town 75 miles northwest of Chicago. The Brown Bomber and his retinue will occupy a 10-room house on the outskirts of the town and will use the Lake Geneva high school athletic field for boxing and other activity. Louis will settle in his camp next Wednesday.

Joe Triner, state athletic commission chairman, has waived a ruling which had required both fighters to be in Chicago at least five days in advance of the bout.

McClenthen of Host Team Cracks Discus Record

Only one record was made, that in the discus throw, a 118 foot 1 inch heave by McClenthen of Mendota, in the opening N. C. I. conference dual meet between Dixon high and Mendota at Mendota Thursday which was easily won by the Dixonites 811-3 to 40 2-3.

A. B. C. CONGRESS SCORING MARKS AREN'T RECORDS

Peoria Classic Ten Years Ago Exceeded 1937 Totals

New York, April 30.—(AP)—While the waning American Bowling Congress tournament will go down in the records as the biggest from a scoring standpoint of any in the 37-year-history of the organization, the totals in the team event in Peoria, Ill., in 1937 were comparatively larger.

A total of 4,017 teams will have competed when finals is written to the tourney, Thursday, while only 1,452 teams rolled at Peoria 10 years ago. In that tournament 10 teams bowled over the 3,000 mark and the world's record was set when another, Tea Shops of Milwaukee, scored 3,199. Nine teams have beaten the 3,000 figure this year while two teams, another record, have beaten the 3,100 mark.

Totals in minor events, particularly in doubles and all-events classes, are higher than in any preceding year.

Eight teams have gone over the 1,300 total in the twin event. Twelve men have bettered the 700 figure in the singles and 10 scores of better than 1,932 have been hung up in the all-event division, including a record 2,070 by Max Stein of Belleville, Ill.

The first 10 in each division remained unchanged after yesterday's bowlers.

NEW YORK FANS IN DITHER OVER TEAMS' ACTIONS

Yanks, Giants Make Fans Dizzy With Strange Wins

BY SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer

Don't look now, but something queer is going on in the Bronx baseball business—Champions, Inc., of the diamond world.

The famous clouting circus, New York Yankees, who cracked about every long distance record in sight last year and averaged better than a homer a game, isn't hitting hard enough to dent a cream puff, so far as extra base blows are concerned.

And the queerest thing about the whole business is that the team keeps right on winning ball games.

Yesterday Monte Pearson turned in a six-hit job, fanning seven batters, to whip Washington's Senators 4-2, the Nats' fifth straight setback.

The Bronx baseball faithful are in even more of a dither over the antics of their other representative in the diamond wars, the Giants. Bill Terry's Terriers have long been noted for putting the burden on their pitchers, and in recent days have emphasized that habit with a profound batting slump.

Yesterday, however, when they really didn't need to get excited, they fielded a revised lineup, reversed themselves all the way, and bombarded Brooklyn's Dodgers, 9-0.

Fat Freddy Fitzsimmons' knuckleball muffed the Dodgers with five hits, but more remarkable were the two homers contributed by the light-hitting Burgess Whitebread, and one walloped by Fat Freddy himself.

Pittsburgh's Pirates gave up an early lead and then took advantage of Bill Lee's wildness in the 13th inning to down the Chicago Cubs, 6-5. Lon Warneke threw an eight-hitter for the Cardinals to whip Cincinnati's disappointing Reds, 6-1.

Cleveland's heavy-hitting Indians clubbed Detroit, 12-3, behind Earl Whitehill's seven-hit burling. The Chicago White Sox pounded Detroit 19 hits as Monte Stratton pitched the American league's first shutout, blanking the Browns, 12-0.

Tony Cuccinello collected five-for-five, one of them a game-winning homer in the 11th, to give the Boston Bees a 6-4 decision over the Phillies. The Athletics and Red Sox were rained out for the third straight day.

GEHRIG'S HURT NOT HAMPERING HIS CLOUTING

Tore Ligaments of His Finger in Exhibition Contest

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Lou Gehrig, baseball's highest salaried performer, is hitting over a nice .360 without the use of the middle finger on his left hand.

Swollen and sore since he tore some ligaments in an exhibition game, the injured finger has given Lou some trouble in throwing but it hasn't affected his clubbing.

"I just hold it above my other fingers when I grip the bat," the Yankee first sacker explained. "Naturally, it takes some power away, but I've been getting my hits. I can't put any pressure on it."

He believes warm weather will bring his finger back into shape. Although Gehrig says he never worries about his consecutive game string—the longest in baseball history and approaching its twelfth year—Yankee players say he will have to be strapped to a hospital cot before he allows the string to snap.

"Maybe the reason I've played so many straight games is that I've always tried to be ready for every game," Lou said.

"You can't make any money sitting on the bench. I like to play, and as long as the boss thinks I am of value to the club I'm trying my best to be in shape."

Here and There In Sports World

By Eddie Brietz

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Our Jints (National League champions too) were hitting only .ouch! 203 for the season when Van Mungo got through with them Wednesday.

Dodger fans had a good time chanting: "Swing High, Swing Low, You Can't Mungo," as the big fellow breezed his fireball across.

(Bill Terry made whole-sale shifts in his batting order yesterday and the Jints fattened their individual and collective averages at bat. Note to Red Ruffing: You had better come on home while the coming is good, Red.

The enemy has averaged only 2½ runs per game off Yankee pitching so far.

Fred Perry, the tennis star, who saw his first baseball game in Washington the other day, still is looking for the pitcher's box.

When talking about ambitious fight managers, don't overlook Abe Ketcher, pilot of Heavyweight Eddie Blunt. Blunt could have had Tony Galento's place on the Hippodrome card Wednesday night, but Ketcher demanded more money than the Hipp paid Joe Louis for kayoing Jorge Brescia. Haw!

The little birds keep insisting Paul Dean is being measured for a Columbus or Rochester uniform. New York papers say Bill Terry is weakening on Hank Leiber.

Jack Torrance's flop as a fighter was the biggest of the New York season in more ways than one. Burleigh Grimes, thumbod from two games in as many days, explains his spat with Umpire Larry Goetz thusly: "I told him he was not infallible and he thought it was a new cuss word."

President Ford Frick told Burleigh yesterday to lay off the umpires or so stand in the corner. If they keep sending Burleigh to the showers, Coach Andy Higgins may take a tip from Red Ruffing and demand a raise for managing the Dodgers.

Wednesday Frankie Martin, Canadian bantamweight champion, protested he was not considered for a title shot with Sixto Escobar. The slight must have upset Frankie no end. That night he was knocked out by K. O. Morgan of Detroit. Ho, hum.

Cleveland's heavy-hitting Indians clubbed Detroit, 12-3, behind Earl Whitehill's seven-hit burling. The Chicago White Sox pounded Detroit 19 hits as Monte Stratton pitched the American league's first shutout, blanking the Browns, 12-0.

Tony Cuccinello collected five-for-five, one of them a game-winning homer in the 11th, to give the Boston Bees a 6-4 decision over the Phillies. The Athletics and Red Sox were rained out for the third straight day.

BRIDGE HAS PAWNSHOP

San Francisco—(AP)—The giant San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge finds itself involuntarily in the pawnshop business. Forgetful motorists who drive up to the toll gates without money have deposited a wide assortment of watches, tiepins, spotlights and spare tires. Each one receives a receipt which serves as a pawn ticket. Most of the pledges are redeemed.

Beer like in der old country!

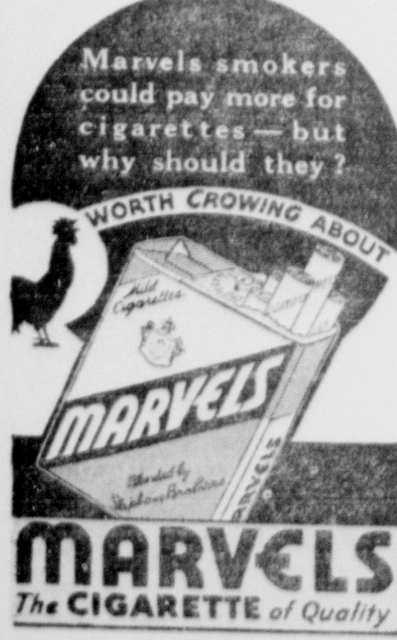

● It's not so hard to get good beer, today. Since repeal, the younger, greener men have learned a lot about the way old-time beer should be brewed.

And there are a few old braumeisters, too, who waited through fourteen dry years to take up their craft again. Such as our braumeister, a 71-year-old veteran of the brewing art. He makes our STAG lager by a formula that was started by our own family back in Stromberg, Germany, 326 years ago!

Stag Beer is dry, not sweet, and has plenty of real beer "character". It's real, old-time beer, every drop of it—and if you're a real beer-drinker, we guarantee you'll like it!

AWAIT FEDERAL FUNDS FOR OLD AGE PENSIONS

Pensioners' Checks in Five Counties Held Up To Date

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—(AP)—Old age assistance officials sought to determine today when federal aid would be forthcoming so they can resume payments to 119,000 aged needy.

Although he asserted he was "confident" the federal grants for April, May and June would arrive in a few days, James H. Andrews, superintendent of old age assistance, asked H. L. McCarthy, regional director for social security in Chicago, for information as to when the funds might be expected.

The checks were stopped yesterday when O. R. Taylor, chief revenue clerk in the auditor's office, said he could not make the April payments to Winnebago, Whiteside, Will, Williamson and Woodford counties until $105,676 was made available.

Besides lacking federal assistance, the state is $500,000 shy of the $2,000,000 it needs to furnish its half of the assistance until July 1. However, F. W. Lewis, Robinson Democrat, has a $680,000 deficiency bill in the legislature, which is expected to be quickly passed after being amended to $500,000.

Sen. Congressional Delay—A. L. Bowen, director of public welfare, said he believed a congressional delay in passing a deficiency bill was responsible for the failure of the federal government to provide its share of the assistance.

Taylor said it would be illegal for the state to pay the government's share of the benefits pending receipt of federal funds. The state could pay its share, however, necessitating a tremendous change in bookkeeping, he said.

Part of the April payments came from a surplus of federal funds, Taylor said, which were exhausted before all counties were cared for.

The last general assembly appropriated $9,000,000 for the pensioners. It is estimated that $25,000,000 in state funds will be needed in the next two years.

GOOD THOUGHTS

Nothing will be attempted if all possible objections must first be overcome.—Dr. Johnson.

It is nothing for a man to hold up his head in a calm; but to maintain his post when all others
have quitted their ground, and there to stand upright, where all other men are beaten down—this is divine and praiseworthy.—Seneca.

Our success depends upon the strength of our purpose; and if we would make much progress, we must use much diligence.—Thomas
a Kempis.

Do not think that what is hard
for thee to master is impossible
for man; but if a thing is possible and proper to man, deem it
attainable by thee.—Marcus Aure-lius.

Discouragement is sometimes a danger signal to warn us that we are in need of more spiritual refreshment. . . . When we learn that we have an ever-present God, who never lets us be separated from Him
and to whom we can turn in every difficulty, we cannot become discouraged, for then we know that we can never be without spiritual light to show us the way.—The Christian Science Monitor.

And let us not be weary in well
doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.—Galatians 6.

AFRAID to Love

retary to John Hendry.

ment head.

nior partner and Joan's fiancé.

CHAPTER IX

BACK once more in the lonely
confines of her room at the hotel, Joan faced the end of her dreams. Hopeless and defeated,
she sat on the narrow bed, and
looked out across the dreary rooftops.

In her ears, Sybil's voice, hon-
eyed and soothing, still rang, and Joan could sense the studied sympathy it would hold as she repeated the story to Bob. But Sy-bil's eyes would remain cold
through the telling of it, and in her heart there would be no compassion for the girl who loved him.

Joan did not blame Sybil. Long ago she had ceased to blame people for drawing away from her;
it was not their fault that they could not understand. Neither did she feel any anger toward Dorothy Starkes. Dorothy's only sin
had been her genuine pleasure
in seeing an old friend. She could not have known what misery her presence brought to light.

If, as she had noticed Joan's
confusion, the thought did occur
to her, she had responded splendidly. It was Dorothy who covered up the matter of the broken
cocktail glass, insisting that she herself had knocked it from Joan's hand. It was Dorothy, too, who had kept the conversation gay and meaningless, until the time Joan
found courage to tear herself
away.

SYBIL had been delighted to learn that Dorothy had known Joan in the past. There was no
end to the questions she asked.
They had lived in Seattle? Strange,
we thought Joan came from Chicago. . . . In school together? Eastman High School? How very, very interesting. . . . To think you had to find each
other right here in New York,
after so many years. . . . how
many years?

She recalled Sybil's clever maneuver to detain Dorothy after the others had left. Dorothy had followed Joan upstairs, suggest-

that they walk to the station together. But downstairs, Sybil sought out Dorothy's cousin.
"Won't you and Dorothy wait just
a moment, Barbara?" she heard
her suggest. "I have a little gift
I want you to enjoy in Florida. . . .
Just a minute after the others
leave?"

Joan could picture her, inquiring into details, drawing Dorothy
out delicately, bit by bit, piecing facts together, guessing, confirm-
ing. . . . By this time, she knew everything—the whole horrible
story.

"My reprieve is up," Joan
thought. "I've had two years. . . .
Two perfect years."

She got up, walked to the window and pulled down the shade.
Perhaps it was better, getting it all over quickly like this. At least she was spared the suspense
of wondering, and eventually, the agony of a last parting with Bob.
It was easier now, while he was
far away.

She would write him a note and explain. . . . No, she could not do that. She could never explain
in a way that he would understand. . . . Let him hear the story
from Sybil. He would, anyway.
She would merely say goodbye.

Bob would love her, despite whatever the world said. She knew that. She knew that as she knew the sun would rise again on the morrow. He would stand by her side against the world. But deep within his own heart, the words would ring: "Her father
killed a man. It's in her blood,
too, to kill." If they had children,
he would watch them too, with suspicion and fear, wondering if
the curse had been handed down
to them.

No, she could not ask Bob to live through that shadow. . . .

SHE took her bags from the closet, and slowly began emptying bureau drawers. She did not have much to pack. Her mother and she had never acquired the habit of accumulating things.

Where should she go this time?
Boston? Somehow she felt afraid of Boston. Its people were interested in families and backgrounds: they would ask questions, too. Philadelphia? Philadelphia was the city of Friends.
Surely there would be a place for
her among them. . . .

With a sudden shyness, the telephone on her wall rang, and
its echo jangled through the room,
filling her mind with new dread.
She stood still in the center of the room, her arms filled with clothes she had just taken from the closet. Who would it be?
Who could it be, but Sybil? And now she did not want to talk to

Sybil. She did not want to explain, to plead with her for understanding. She could not feel safe with her secret locked in Sybil's breast. For Sybil could not remain true to a trust; her eyes were too cold, too uncon-
promising. She might promise,
she might pledge, but she would
keep the secret only as long as it
suited her to do so.

Joan tried to shut her ears to the phone's insistent ringing. She would not answer it.

It was not Sybil Hendry, however. For Sybil, at that moment,
was pacing up and down her own
rose and silver boudoir, waiting impatiently for the call she had put through to Philip in Chicago.

TWENTY minutes later, her brother's voice came to her across the miles.

"Hello, Philip. Any news in Chicago?"

"Not a thing." His tone was discouraging. "This is a wild goose chase, Syb. The girl worked with Ward & Claver, all right. I checked on her. Got good reports on her, too. She lived at a girls' club—the old matron even remembered her there. But beyond that, I'm stuck."

Sybil's thoughts raced beyond
Chicago.

"Philip," she said excitedly. "I found out something today. Forget Chicago. Go out to Seattle,
will you? She lived in Seattle—
and went to Eastman High School
there, seven years ago."

"Wait a minute! I'll write that down. Eastman High School, you
say?"

Mount Morris

By Pauline Yoe

Mr. Morris—When radio fans of Mount Morris listen in with all the world to the coronation ceremonies in London May 12, they will receive the news with an added thrill knowing that two of our townspeople actually will be viewing this historic event.

Mr. and Mrs. James Watt will leave for New York tomorrow, from where they will sail at midnight Tuesday on the Queen Mary for London.

Mrs. William Banks of Davenport, a sister of Mrs. Watt, first disclosed this thrilling news to a group of friends at a party last Friday afternoon. This announcement was the signal for the planning of a round of Bon Voyage parties which have crowded the week's calendar.

Three silver ships gliding on a mirror sea formed the appropriate centerpiece on the large table at the Bronson home, when the Q. P. K.'s enjoyed a desert bridge Tuesday afternoon. A box of stationery which was the guest prize, will serve to bring news of her travels to home friends. Mrs. Watt also commanded the bridge as she received high prize, low prize went to Mrs. Horton.

The party traveled to the Gerald Sanderson home on Wednesday for luncheon where the crew was augmented by the husbands for evening "mess." Prizes in the afternoon went to Mrs. Watt, Mrs. Cox and Mrs. Bronson.

The centerpiece epitomized the entire trip with miniature car and train, a replica of the Queen Mary with its tug boat, airplanes for quick hops and golden slippers for side jaunts, with one of Uncle Sam's flag ships standing by. A swan with its load of flags waved a happy wish for a smooth sailing on a glistening ocean. Besides Mr. and Mrs. Watt others at the party were Professor and Mrs. Ira Hendrickson, Mrs. Eleanor Wellhausen, Mrs. Katherine Hough, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yoe, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bronson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horton.

The third day's sailing brought the party to the apartment of Mrs. Charles Cox for luncheon on Thursday, where they overtook a "painted ship upon a painted ocean," which with its sails set, wing and wing, formed the attractive center for the table. Small travelling bags contained dainties as favors for the guests. Contract, copiously interrupted with conversation, contributed another pleasant afternoon for Mrs. Watt to remember.

Such a diet of parties would not be complete without the desert bridge at the home of Mrs. Ira Hendrickson this afternoon. As usual, Mrs. Hendrickson can be counted on for an unique surprise to climax this "good will tour" of parties.

By this time you will have gathered that the idea is—"Happy Landings, Marie and Jim."

After the coronation pageant Mr. and Mrs. Watt will leave for a tour of European countries. Journeys through Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and France will be topped with "Paris in the spring," where they will attend the International Exposition. On their return to England, they will visit the Shakespeare country, with stopovers in England and Scotland with relatives. On June 10, they plan to go to North Scotland, where they will spend about three weeks with Mr. Watt's sister, Mrs. Mary Sinclair in Kirkwall. They will leave their home on the heather for their little gray home in the west, expecting to arrive July 5, by way of Montreal and the St. Lawrence river.

The chill of spring gives place to warm showers, as many friends of Miss Joyce Longman, a May bride-to-be, join at parties to offer their felicitations.

Last evening at the Harvey Long home, Miss Roberta with the Misses Ruth Lamb, Hazel Park and Dorothy Anderson were hostesses at a miscellaneous shower.

Yellow and white streamers, curved from a white wedding bell beneath which Miss Longman was seated, to the many gaily wrapped packages which she opened during the evening.

Among the guests was Mrs. Fred Hienfeldt, an intimate friend of the group, from Winona, Minn., who with her small daughter is visiting at the home of her parents. Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Hightower. Others at the party were the Misses Chester Newburg, Elmer Zundahl, William Lawrence, Kenneth Zellers, Cecil Armstrong, Faustina Curley, Harry Longman, and the Misses Ruth Kable, Dorothy Niman, Zella Stengel, Fayella Robbins and Hazel Kimmel.

Last Wednesday Mrs. Chester Newburg of Rockford entertained at a dinner party for Miss Longman. The guests were the Misses Roberta Long, Hazel Park, Ruth Lamb, Miss Dorothy Anderson, Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Elmer Zundahl.

Miss Longman and Rev. Richard Roth will be married in the Lutheran church on May 10. The young couple will make their home in Neenah, Wis., where Rev. Roth is assistant pastor of St. John's Lutheran church.

They may have worn old clothes and used paper napkins but the heavily laden table was no indication of hard times Monday when the Homemakers' class of the Methodist church had their regular monthly party and business meeting. The party which was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Patton was well attended and the guests spent a most delightful evening.

At the regular meeting of the Eastern Star Monday evening, Mrs. Wilma Colvin was installed in the office of Warder. Mrs. Colvin is taking the chair of Mrs. Dora Spring of Leaf River whose resignation was read.

Mrs. Arminnie Boston, Worthy Matron of the local organization, was the Conductress at the Guest Night ceremonies in Freeport chapter on Wednesday evening. She was accompanied by her husband, Carrol Boston, Mrs. Olive Rohleder, Mrs. Mary Lena VanStone, Mrs. Leota Buser and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Boston will be in Lanark Sunday where they will attend the dinner for the members of the Bertha M. Eagle club.

A program which reflects an interest of many of the members has been arranged with Mrs. Joseph Crawford of Dixon to "Antique Glass and Chinaware."

In celebration of her husband's birthday anniversary, Mrs. Carl E. Borklund with her mother, Mrs. John W. Bon of Polo, were hostesses to a group of sixteen at Polo Thursday evening of last week. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wilkie of Polo.

The announcement of last week has disclosed a definite interest in Mount Morris for the formation of a Business and Professional Woman's club. As a consequence the constitution and by-laws committee with Miss Jane Wingard, Miss Marge Chermak and Miss Loretta Gilbert has been busy preparing a tentative constitution to be submitted at the May 5 organization meeting, which will be held in Kable Inn at 7 o'clock. That a large number of women will be present is indicated by the canvass of the membership committee which has been active since the initial meeting last week. The committee is representative in its membership so that it might be possible to interview every one who might be interested in such a club; however if any one should be overlooked inadvertently, they will be welcome at the meeting where they will receive complete information. This committee consists of Mrs. Carroll Boston, Mrs. Gerald Huffman, Miss Grace Ritsen, Mrs. Ernest Boydston, Mrs. Olive Rohleder, Miss Irma Armbruster, Miss Charlotte Adams, Miss Marian Bulker, Miss Hazel Kimmel and Miss Jane Lambert. Miss Elizabeth Priest of Rockford will be present at the May 5 meeting and is expected to be accompanied by several Rockford members and possibly a state officer of the B. P. W. C.

Mrs. Frank Sheets of Oregon gave a most refreshing talk on her travels through Europe at the meeting of chapter C. P. E. O. Sisterhood, held at the home of Mrs. Harry Kable Tuesday evening. Her uncanny portrayal of the dialects of the people she met—from the Burns brogue of the Scotch, to best of Wodehouse British cockney to the musical softness of the Italians, lent an amusing color to the account of her travels.

The Misses Mary McColl, Edna Coulson, Nellie Bishop and Marian Symphon will be luncheon guests of Mrs. Wendell Schrader this afternoon. Her table will be centered with gay sweetpeas.

In remembrance of their second wedding anniversary, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Boyle were surprised with a party given for them last Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hough. The bride carried a vegetable bouquet at the mock ceremony which with a game of monopoly, furnished the evening's fun. A bride's cake in white with pink and green trim topped with a bride and groom made an attractive centerpiece for the midnight supper.

Group singing and piano solos by Bryant Zimmerman furnished the music for the occasion. A demonstration of first aid and signaling was given by four Boy Scouts, Bryant Zimmerman, Harlan Baker, William Chaffee, John Yoe and Tom Leonard. J. Walker Robinson concluded the evening's program with a talk on current farm problems.

Mrs. John Price and Mrs. Ralph Little will represent the Pine Creek Woman's club at the convention of that organization to be held in Dixon on Thursday.

Sprecher, Mrs. Rosie Gibbs and Miss Elizabeth Pieper will be hostesses to the members of the Lutheran Ladies' Aid when they meet in the church next Thursday afternoon.

Forty members of the music department of the Mount Morris high school will journey to Normal early Friday morning, where they will compete in the state final contest of the Illinois School Vocal Association. By virtue of their first rank placing in the district contest at DeKalb, the mixed chorus will sing at 10 o'clock Friday morning, while the Girls Glee club is scheduled at two in the afternoon.

On Saturday morning, Helen Barnhizer will sing in the girls' low voice event at 9:10, and Jane Devine in the medium voice at 9:40. One hour later, the mixed ensemble will sing, while the girls' quartet is not due to appear until 2:15 in the afternoon.

There is always plenty of competition at the state contest, but it is expected that the Moundersingers will make their usual creditable showing, and possibly, it is hoped, bring home a much coveted first division rating.

Commercial students of the local high school, made an excellent showing in the district commercial contest, held last Saturday at the Pecatonica high school. With a first place, two seconds and a third in the team events, Mount Morris managed to amass twenty points to place them second in the contest.

In the Typing I, Novice B class, the local team consisting of Ethel Balluff, Velma Zellers and Betty Martin, placed first, aided largely by the fine work of the first two named, who placed first among the individual ratings in this class.

In the Typing II class, the Mounders team of Leo Crocker, Ruth Parkinson and Jane Devine placed second, with Ruth Parkinson scoring second high in the individual events. Ruth also placed second in the open event.

Mount Morris also placed second in the Shorthand I contest, with Jane Devine, Doris Doyle and Minnie Diehl taking dictation and transcribing notes like veterans, against the stiff competition which was met in this division.

Although the bookkeeping team placed third, Paul Johnson ranked first among the individuals in this event, being the only one among all the contestants to score over 90 in this test. Mariou Hilger and Betty Martin were the other members of this team. Miss Edna Coulson, commercial teacher at the high school, is expecting these pupils to be well prepared for the sectional commercial contest, for which the local high school will be host on May 8. Over 100 students, winners and runners-up in the district contests held last Saturday at Pecatonica, Savanna and Galena, will be guests of Mount Morris at this time.
